Renal Medicine Associates and Home Dialysis of New Mexico

Generations of New Mexicans facing renal disease have depended on the quality care and compassion of Renal Medicine Associates (RMA) and Home Dialysis of New Mexico. RMA, an independent nephrology practice established in 1973, was the first in Albuquerque to care for patients with end-stage renal disease. Now they offer a range of kidney disease treatments and helped create the Presbyterian Kidney Transplant Program, which has performed hundreds of transplant surgeries. Home Dialysis of New Mexico is a dialysis treatment center owned and operated by RMA.

Together they have an extraordinary – and lengthy – record of community involvement. They established the RMA Kidney Foundation, which supports patients and gives dialysis patients fresh produce, provides kidney disease education to clinicians and the community, raises awareness about kidney disease and promotes prevention. The two organizations have contributed more than $250,000 to date to Presbyterian Healthcare Foundation. They are the single largest contributor ($200,000) to Presbyterian Community Health. They have also generously donated to the Rust Medical Center fundraising campaign. Through their life-saving work, community involvement and generosity, Renal Medicine Associates and Home Dialysis of New Mexico exemplify Presbyterian’s mission to improve the health and lives of New Mexicans.
PRESBYTERIAN SARAH KOTCHIAN CLINICAL QUALITY AWARD

Awarded to a physician or clinical team for leadership in and outstanding contributions to clinical or organizational quality improvement at Presbyterian. This award is named after Sarah Kotchian, PhD, who served on the PHS board and led the board’s Quality Committee for many years.

Presbyterian Transplant Services

Patients have received life-changing gifts from the Transplant Services team at Presbyterian since 1986. Through new programs and outreach efforts, the group is touching even more lives with their important work. Presbyterian Transplant Services is certified by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services and the United Network of Organ Sharing. In 2018, the program received the Platinum Recognition Award from the National Hospital Organ Donation Campaign, the highest level of recognition from the organization nationally. Presbyterian Transplant Services is the only program in New Mexico offering pancreas transplants. In fact, the team completed their second pancreas transplant in 2019.

Beyond their exemplary clinical work, Presbyterian Transplant Services has also increased awareness and education about transplants and the results are changing lives. Their outreach efforts, including the Presbyterian Transplant Outreach Program, doubled the number of transplant referrals at Presbyterian in just two years. They’ve also dramatically increased the number of patients listed on the United Network of Organ Sharing and worked with the National Kidney Register to implement a Paired Kidney Donation program at Presbyterian, which allows for transplants of incompatible living donor pairs. By combining clinical excellence and innovation with education and outreach, Presbyterian Transplant Services has made outstanding contributions to Presbyterian and our community.
Cordelia Sever, MD

Dr. Cordelia Sever is on the ride of a lifetime. Thanks to her expertise, dedication, leadership and adventurous nature, it’s been full of globe-spanning experiences, the love of family and friends and a distinguished medical career.

Cordelia Woerle was born in Augsburg, Germany, the middle of three daughters to her father Walter, an architect, and her mother Elisabeth, a dentist. In high school, Cordelia developed a love of physics, chemistry, sports and world travel.

But music was her consuming interest. She studied at the Leopold Mozart Conservatory in Augsburg and played the violin in orchestras and competitions. With the winnings of one violin contest, she bought a motorcycle.

Cordelia earned her medical degree from Ludwig-Maximilians University in Munich. While traveling the U.S. during medical school, she met her husband, Greg. They connected over motorcycles and travel. Eventually, he moved to Germany, they rode motorcycles across Europe and soon were married. Cordelia had son Brendan as she finished her medical training. As she completed her residency at University of Pittsburgh Medical Center Presbyterian, she had a daughter, Alma.

After her residency, the Severs moved to Albuquerque where Cordelia joined the University of New Mexico hematopathology program and then Pathology Associates at Presbyterian Hospital. Later, she became co-director of hematology at the newly founded TriCore Laboratories.

Cordelia has led an accomplished career in pathology while lending her time, talent and energy to organizations in her field. Her colleagues say Cordelia is helpful, professional and well-versed in her work.
She’s overseen labs in the Presbyterian network and taught hematopathology fellows at University of New Mexico. She served as founding chairperson of the College of American Pathologists program to provide ISO accreditation for medical laboratories. She’s also served as president for the Greater Albuquerque Medical Association. At Presbyterian, she’s led numerous committees.

Family, adventure and music continue to be important parts of Cordelia’s life. Her travels have included climbing Mt. Fuji, riding the Trans-Siberian railway and riding motorcycles across New Zealand, Mongolia, Europe and the western U.S. Somehow, she also finds time to play chamber music, garden, quilt, ski, snowboard and hike. Congratulations to Dr. Sever on this prestigious award!

PRESBYTERIAN RISING STAR AWARD

Awarded to a physician on the medical staff who is recognized by peers as being a role model through professional excellence and leadership at Presbyterian.

Natasha Kolb, MD

Natasha Kolb, MD, is a board-certified emergency medicine physician who is using her leadership skills and talents to shape positive change in the Emergency Departments within Presbyterian’s Central Delivery System. Dr. Kolb has worked in regional and Albuquerque-area emergency departments and urgent care clinics for 19 years. She is a member of the PMG Executive Council, which is recognition of her leadership strengths, her peers’ respect and the fact that she exemplifies CARES behaviors. Dr. Kolb also serves on several other leadership committees, lending her talents and energy to support quality and safety initiatives while shaping best practices for patient care. She is also a certified communications trainer for other clinicians. Dr. Kolb earned her medical degree from University of New Mexico Hospital. In her free time, she enjoys skiing, cycling, reading, spending time with family and hanging out in her backyard with her dog and chickens.
FOUNDATION IMPACT

Presbyterian Healthcare Foundation is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization. When you give, 100 percent of your gift is directed toward improving the health and lives of New Mexicans. These are just a few of the ways your donations helped to make excellence a reality in 2018:

- $2,760,562 donor dollars invested in Presbyterian patients, programs, equipment and education
- 2,157 clinical and nursing staff empowered through educational opportunities and additional training
- $445,008 in new equipment across Presbyterian
- 2,952 patients and families received help with lodging, transportation, meals and other emergent needs
- 72 members of staff awarded with the Presbyterian Healthcare Foundation Guardian Angel award
- 110 employees assisted through the Employee Carefund
- 1,450 families provided with bereavement resources after the death of a loved one
GUARDIAN ANGEL AWARD
